

Culture & Identi-tea (snacks, and chats)

7:00-8:30PM on Tuesday, November 8th
GB 304 (Galbraith Building)

At our next Tea, Snacks, and Chats session, our very own EWBoroto will be leading a discussion on how cultural backgrounds and identities work to shape our worldviews, and in turn, the effect they can have on our experiences when working abroad.

Stay tuned to our Facebook page for more details regarding this event!

The Walrus Talks: Africa's Next Generation

Isabel Bader Theatre (93 Charles St W.)

The Walrus Talks: Africa's Next Generation is happening at the University of Toronto this year. It is an event produced in partnership with The MasterCard Foundation and will feature nine speakers discussing the next generation of African leaders, education access and equality, youth, gender equality, social justice, and more.

They've kindly waived the admission fee for EWB U of T members, so if you are interested in attending this event and want to take advantage of the offer, simply visit <https://walrus-talks-africa-toronto.eventbrite.ca>, and use the promotional code UOFT.

'A Place at the Table' Screening

7:00PM on Friday, November 11th

BA 2159 (Bahen Centre for Information Technology)

Join Equitable Food Systems for a screening of 'A Place at the Table' and of course, some food for thought.

Project Martial Smarts

1:30-3:00PM on Sunday, November 13th

Join EWB U of T on Sunday, November 13th for Project Martial Smarts - a free workshop designed to promote female empowerment through teaching the basics of self-defense to female students in partnership with local non-profit, Martial SMARTS.

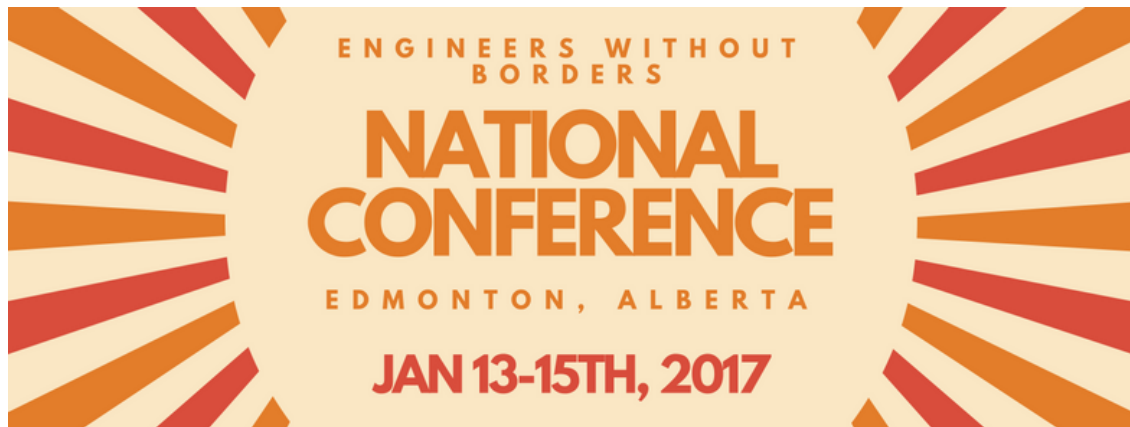

Martial SMARTS is a Toronto-based non-profit organization that aims to teach situational awareness as well as proactive and reactive self-defense, based on the principles of Karate and Taekwondo. Their workshops focus on improving self-esteem and self-confidence by encouraging a healthy lifestyle, promoting physical activity, and helping women discover their abilities and inner strength.

Bring your friends, ladies - this is an event that promises to be a rewarding experience!

National Conference 2017

National Conference, also known as "xChange", is EWB's biggest event of the year. It is an amazing experience with an abundance of networking opportunities, a chance to listen and interact with very knowledgeable speakers, be exposed to more opportunities to get involved with the organization, and just a fun time overall with other EWBERs from all across Canada.

This January, we hope to come together and examine how we can acknowledge systemic power and privilege and commit to seeking better ways to collaborate to change the systems that sustain poverty and inequality on a global scale.

Location: Edmonton, Alberta

Date: January 13-15th, 2017

We are currently in the process of figuring out costs, so stay tuned for more information!

Additionally, due to the generosity of the Faculty of Engineering, 10 first year engineering students will be able to attend this conference for free! This will be determined on a first-come, first-serve basis, so sign up ASAP!
